

Movie Reflections

Just Mercy

Bryan Stevenson's best selling book Just Mercy: A Story of Justice and Redemption led to the making of this film. Based on Bryan's true life story, the film follows the courageous journey of him and a small team pioneering a free legal service for men sentenced to life on death row.

Stepping Up

"Fight for the people who need help the most" was Bryan's mother's advice to him throughout his teenage life.

What advice have you been given in how to live your life?

Who do you see as the people who need help the most?

Speaking Out

Darnell is wrongfully arrested and intimidated because he was willing to tell the truth about Jonny D's whereabouts on the day of the murder.

What is the most unjust experience you have faced?

Have you ever been scared to speak up for what is right? Share if you'd like to, more about that situation and the consequences.

Your Reason Why

Bryan's grandfather was killed over a dispute of a black and white television and no justice was served, so Bryan became a lawyer as he wanted to bring justice for people and help bring about change.

What makes you angry, or what do you get passionate about that you'd like to see change?

What do you think is your purpose and how would that impact the world?
